

Stephanie Schofield, RTR

Stephanie Schofield is a Quality Control Technologist in the Central Zone of the Nova Scotia Health Authority. She is currently on the CAMRT's Professional Practice Advisory Council and a board member of the Canadian Society of Breast Imaging.

Stephanie graduated as a radiation technologist in Halifax in 1991 and started working at the Toronto General Hospital in general imaging and mammography. She returned home to Halifax in 1998, where she continued working in general imaging and mammography at Dartmouth General Hospital. In 2002, Stephanie started working as a quality control technologist at the QEII and district sites.

Stephanie enjoys every aspect of her job from radiation assessments to image quality and talking about appropriate imaging whenever anyone will listen. She works with a great team and they make work interesting and fun!

When she is not at work you can find her with her family.

stephanie.schofield@nshealth.ca